Young at Heart Celebrations

Hindsight is a wonderful thing. "If only I'd said this", "if only we'd done that..."

We all have regrets. But by drawing upon Life Celebration's wealth of experience and expertise there is still time to do something extra special for a dear and much loved family member or friend who is perhaps sadly suffering from illness or simply reaching the autumn of their years.

It is a poignant reality that the only two events in life where extended family and friends all gather together are weddings and funerals. But what if there was another option? Another day when that very special person, who is not only still young at heart, but who is also given one wonderful celebration just for them where they can gather to their heart not only their children, brothers, sisters, nephews and nieces, but also those mischievous little grandchildren without whom no family gathering could ever be complete...

At Life Celebration we don't have the gift of prophecy. But we can predict that by arranging one of our Young at Heart Celebrations you'll be giving that special loved one a beautiful gift that they will cherish and enjoy. Something to treasure for the rest of their days.

We've seen the look of magical delight and sheer joy on the face of the celebrant at our Young at Heart Celebrations, and, believe us, it really is a sight to behold. We have also seen the comfort Young at Heart Celebrations have brought to the bereaved; that they were able to do something special and not look back with regret that they left it just that little bit too late.

Why not show your appreciation of a lifetime of kindness, tolerance, patience and love that that special person has shown to you by going some way to returning those gifts? By showing how much that person has meant to you all and making him or her guest of honour on one special day just for them?

We would be delighted to arrange everything for you from beginning to end. We will liaise with you throughout so that your unique and exact requirements are all met, whatever they may be, and all at an affordable and sensible price. We can also arrange for your Young at Heart Celebration to be captured on film forever and then be presented to the guest of honour afterwards in a beautifully leather-bound and embossed album. And when the time comes to start thinking about funeral arrangements and perhaps even a beautiful bespoke memorial garden in the departed's honour, we would be honoured to arrange it all for you, with empathy, dignity, compassion and the greatest care.

Some people say that the greatest gift in life is time. But surely kindness, deep love, compassion and respect are the greatest gifts of all. Young at Heart Celebrations provide a priceless opportunity to show that special one how much they are loved by throwing a wonderful and unforgettable celebration to remember just for them, while they are still active enough to enjoy it and before it's too late...
